

RaiseMe is the easiest way to motivate and support your students on their path to college.

Learn about your students in and out of the classroom

Help your students make informed college decisions by seeing what activities they're filling their schedule with and which colleges they're considering. (Making it a bit easier to write those recommendation letters!)

Follow your students' micro-scholarship earnings

See how much your high school students are earning at each of our partner colleges. See this individually, by grade level, and cumulatively for your school.

Give your students an inside perspective on college

You've told your students what makes a strong applicant — strengthen that message with information direct from colleges on RaiseMe, showing exactly what they value in prospective students.

Our Educators

RaiseMe is in 1 of every 2 high schools in all US states and territories thanks to our community of 25,000+ educators. We work with high school counselors, teachers, districts, and access organizations across the country to promote a college-going culture amongst their students.

"RaiseMe helps our kids grow. It helps provide the funds that they never thought they could have, It helps give them an outlook for colleges that they'd never thought about otherwise, and it encourages them to keep track of their academic portfolio and community service throughout their high school career. We've got kids starting younger, more active, more excited to take rigorous challenging coursework, to do better, and study harder, because they know that eventually, those accomplishments will be rewarded in the form of dollars when they get to college."

"RaiseMe increases awareness of college among our students. Since we started using RaiseMe, we've seen an increase in both the number of students applying to college, and the number of colleges that students apply to and attend. There's a trickle-down effect. Students who would have only applied to two-year colleges are now applying to four-year colleges because they realize it's a financially viable option. Meanwhile, students who weren't even thinking about postsecondary education are now seeing their friends apply to four-year colleges and deciding to apply to two-year colleges as a result."
